Watchful Waiting

A stabilizing note is sounded by A. K. Loyd in a statement given to The Courier this week. Mr. Loyd, asked to outline the probable trend of the forthcoming B.C.F.G.A. convention emphasises the point that no matter which of the various suggested changes in the present setup may be adopted, there is little cause to fear that any retroactive action will be taken and the work of the past four or five years' lost. Each of the current suggestions is an attempt to improve the present setup and may be adopted to the present system.

Mr. Loyd elucidates the attitude of the growers organization of which he is president. He states that the executive of the B.C.F.G.A. has carefully refrained from expressing any opinion during the past few months, which would have had the effect of presenting or discouraging constructive ideas advanced by any grower in any section. The executive feels that the greatest possible freedom should be given to the discussion of any plan or scheme advanced that the grower-body may be fully cognizant of all suggestions. The B.C.F.G.A. executive feels that it is there to carry out the wishes of the members of the association whatever those wishes may be, and the policies adopted at the growers' "parliament" which is the convention in Vernon this month.

While the executive have pursued a policy of watchful waiting, Mr. Loyd's statement makes it clear that when the proper time comes his executive is quite prepared to "go to bat" to prevent any disruption of the marketing scheme. Should the convention reach a stage of stalemate, Mr. Loyd states he will suggest that a special committee be formed to prepare recommendations for the delegates who will elect the Fruit Board before May. The executive will be prepared, with the directors' consent, to make suggestions to such a committee and it is hinted that such suggestions would include a review and possible revision of the present setup and also recommendations for the safe-guarding of the finances of the B.C.F.G.A. We presume that the latter intimation refers to the present system of collecting the revenue of the association.

Some have wondered why the B.C.F.G.A. has not been taking a more active part in the present campaign of many plans. Mr. Loyd's statement makes it plain that his executive has deliberately avoided "taking sides" during the present discussions, feeling that a free and thorough discussion of each plan is to the advantage of the industry. President Loyd also makes it plain that while his executive has apparently been inactive, it is quite prepared to enter the discussions when the appropriate time arrives. His statement will do much toward clearing the air as to the attitude of the executive body of the growers' association in the present instance.

Ferry Schedule

The department of public works has departed from its policy of continuing the late ferry service from month to month and has announced that the schedule of the past two months will be continued until March 31st. This information has been received with gratification by the entire Okanagan and the Kelowna district in particular. Many expressions of appreciation have been made and The Courier takes this opportunity of conveying to the provincial government the pleasure of the people of this district. The late schedule operated this winter has done away with the "nine o'clock curfew" of past winters and normal traffic has been enabled to flow continuously north and south through the Valley.

One suggestion might be made, however. The schedule has been so very uncertain that the people of the north and south ends of the Valley have little knowledge of the actual hours of operation. Several instances have been brought to our attention of hotels in Vernon and Penticton giving erroneous information as to the ferry hours. People of this district have not been certain as to the exact schedule. If the department could find its way clear to advertise the schedule in Vernon, Penticton and Kelowna, the residents of the entire Valley would have accurate information and the present inconveniences would be corrected. Incidentally the better known the schedule becomes, the greater traffic will be carried with a consequent increase in revenue.

The late service this year has met with public approval. The provincial government has shown itself to be ready to cooperate in this regard and it is anticipated that when the new ferry is launched much of the communication troubles of the Valley will be eliminated.

Vernon Ice Carnival

While the Vernon Rotary Club's ice carnival was primarily a Vernon affair as it should be staged nowhere else in the Okanagan, nevertheless it was essentially a Valley event. Without the effective co-operation of the other cities and districts the carnival would have failed to reach the splendid peak it did achieve.

We in the Okanagan are peculiarly situated. We are far removed from the country's centre of population and are unable to enjoy the better theatrical, musical and sporting events. The Coast cities are so far and for the average Okanaganite to be able to attend the outstanding action which do visit the other words, from an entertainment point of view, are isolated and must provide this situation is a real problem.

ice carnival, if it should become an annual affair, bids fair to entering this class. Events such as the local regatta and the ice carnival are only possible through the active co-operation of the people of the entire Valley. No one district is able alone to financially support the cost of such affairs. It is well that it is so. The more the people of the various Valley districts intermingle the better friends they will become and by giving support to the outstanding events in other cities they pool the resources of the entire Valley and bring here performers which we would not otherwise be able to enjoy. When one attends an event in another city of the Valley, he is doing more than having a good time himself and extending a little cooperation to friends of another district. He is definitely encouraging those future affairs which will bring him pleasure and broaden his educational and entertainment field. Each event that is successfully staged is definite encouragement for those that follow.

The Courier feels that it is speaking for some four hundred people of the Kelowna district when it expresses appreciation of the Vernon Rotary ice carnival. Not one disparaging word has been heard from those who attended from this city. On the contrary many have been the comments of the highest praise. It was an entirely satisfied crowd of enthusiastic fans that journeyed south on the special train on Thursday evening. It is safe to predict that the large majority of them are already planning to repeat the trip should the carnival be staged again next year.

Even the casual observer could not fail to be impressed by the great amount of work that the carnival occasioned behind the scenes. That the committee in charge did its work well was evident from the smoothness of the entire program. These things do not just happen by themselves. They are the result of much planning, careful attention to the minutest details and constant supervision. That the evening passed so quickly and so smoothly is the greatest tribute that could be paid to the committee seeing the culmination of many weeks of strenuous effort.

Kelowna rejoices with Vernon in the success of its first ice carnival. We in Kelowna are also grateful to Vernon for bringing such a show to the Valley. The Courier is confident that it is expressing the opinion of its readers when it says "Well done, Vernon!"

Canada, Centre of Empire

About the last thing in the minds of unimaginative Canadians is the possibility of this Dominion becoming the actual centre of the British Empire. When Mr. R. A. Piddington, author-economist, suggested moving across the Atlantic from beneath the shadow of continental bombs most commentators here who didn't call his plan crazy and impractical treated it humorously. Some wise-crackers still joke about it.

The magazine Time recently recalled the scheme by reference to the occultism of Editor Wythe Williams of Greenwich, Conn., who, it seems, working in Europe for twenty-five years, has been predicting the turn of events with remarkable regularity. He now is betting on a world war within a year and the removal of the British Empire's capital to Ottawa.

The Publishers' Financial Bureau a few weeks ago released a statement by Mr. Roger W. Babson entitled "Canada's Future Bright" in which he said:

Few realize it, but the bombing planes will actually revolutionize England civilization. People are moving into the country. Instead of big houses on high knolls they are building modest homes in wooded glens. Factories are being erected in the country, camouflaged and hidden by trees. Duplicate sets of books are being kept by British firms one in the city and one in the secret hiding place in the country. If the city officers' records are destroyed there will be a duplicate set in the rural hideaway. But even such drastic measures as these are just makeshift safeguards against the bombing plane.

Hence, Britain is looking across the sea to Canada. North America is practically immune to bombing attacks provided an enemy cannot establish an airbase on this side of the Atlantic. Therefore, it is only logical that England should look to Canada as the storm-cell for her reserves.

The coming visit of the King and Queen is another step in the program. Then should come a constant flow of English capital into Canada. The formal government seat or the King and Queen's palace may never be moved to Canada, but the industrial and financial nerve centre may well cross the sea.

After returning from a trip to England, Mr. Linton Rees wrote in the Pasadena, California, Star-News that the proposed transfer was a subject of serious talk in leading clubs.

Cavalade, English news-magazine, remarks that the proposition must not be quite so crazy as it appears at first blush. "It is something of a geographical oddity," it comments, "that the very heart of an Empire which extends over five of the world's continents uniting 500,000,000 people, should be lodged in a tiny island vulnerable to attack on all sides, and exposed to the deadliest perils of war."

Mr. T. R. Ybarr, in the Commentator, New York, had previously discussed the subject, calling attention to Mr. Piddington's book and lengthy articles in British newspapers and magazines. "Indifferent to the coming of 'visionaries and calamity howlers,'" he said, a small minority of the subjects of King George VI. "boldly declare that though Britain and London must always remain the holy temples of venerated national traditions they must yield precedence, as military and naval and aerial and administrative and manufacturing and financial headquarters of the Empire, to other less imperiled places."

First, they clamored for the transfer to Canada of the principal manufacturing plants of Britain, especially those engaged in turning out war material. The desirability of moving ammunition factories beyond the range of bombing aeroplanes has long been obvious. Safe locations for other important industries, many of which perform essential wartime service are almost an necessity.

What is ridiculous about the proposal to transfer these industries gradually to Canada? No doubt an aggressive enemy would have the whole country chartered and the vital spots marked for destruction. It would be absurd to submit to this danger when comparatively safe shelter is available within British territory. At any rate a move has been made to produce war material in this country and it could not be a long step to extend the process to other industries. The transfer of industries is a long and complex process, and later with financial machinery.

If the navy remained the same, the British Empire could continue to exist.

The aeroplane has changed the prospect, and Canada, remote from enemies, offers the pivotal location.

"Three thousand miles of the Atlantic Ocean, instead of twenty miles of the Straits of Dover," observes Cavalade, "would lie between the new imperial centre and the nearest shore of continental Europe. At Gibraltar, Malta, Cyprus and Aden, British forces would still guard Mediterranean-Red Sea communications. The establishment of a great naval base at the Canadian port of Vancouver, with big aerodromes nearby, would make the British immeasurably stronger than they now are in the Pacific. With the great base at Singapore in Malaya, rated as impregnable, on one shore, and Vancouver, developed into a second enormously strong base, on the other, the British would have little to fear from their most likely Pacific antagonist, Japan."

Another thing, and a most important one:

Based on Canada, the British Empire would have as next-door neighbor to its central headquarters no less a power than the United States. The whole super-scheme, declare its champions, boils down to this: vital organisms of the Empire must be got out of harm's way before, instead of after, some terrible emergency arises.

The plan is relatively simple. Although it would be a bitter gulp for the isolationists even they would have to admit its advantages.

One in Every Four Hundred

If you would prolong your life, go inside the house and stay inside after five o'clock every afternoon. Particularly do not venture to drive your automobile between the hours of five and midnight, and if you are not a driver, do not cross streets during those hours. If you will follow these rules you will greatly enhance your chances of living until 1940 or longer, for during 1939 one in every hundred motorists will be injured, one in every four hundred pedestrians will be hurt, one in every thirty-five hundred motorists will be killed and one in every eight thousand pedestrians will go to his grave. Half of these accidents will occur between the hours of five p.m. and midnight.

These figures appear from the surveys of automobile accidents made by the National Safety Council. They should be a warning to every person who uses the streets, and, particularly, to every motorist. If any reader doubts their accuracy he may be convinced if he will check the long roll of accidents which inevitably, will be printed in the papers. Holiday week-ends are notorious for their accident toll. During the recent two long holiday week-ends this district was gratifyingly free from serious accidents on the highways but the fact remains that one out of every four hundred automobiles on the roads this week-end will be involved in an accident. It is no longer a question of how many, but rather it has become a question of which one.

Of interest to the people of the Okanagan is the fact that Lewis Duncan, K.C., of Nash investigation fame, aspired to be mayor and was defeated by forty thousand votes by Mayor Ralph Day.

One of the most pleasant of all occupations is that of contemplating the beauties and the joy of spring. Now that Christmas and the New Year have come and gone and the days are gradually lengthening, it is permissible to give the imagination a little freedom and to anticipate pleasantly what lies immediately beyond the snow and the cold weather of the next month or two. From this point on, the days will gradually lengthen and with every added moment of daylight we will be brought closer to daffodils and tulips, to buds and blossoms. It is pleasant to shift the thought process forward a bit so that they will run into the delightful setting of April and May.

EVER SINCE KIPLING wrote the qualifications of a newspaper reporter would not attempt to say. On the other hand, the respondent asking the same question of me recently, put the question in this way: "I would like to know the exact qualifications of a newspaper reporter. I am seventeen, and I could ever become one of those." I have put my initials only as a sign of judgment against my desire. The query over to its "advice-to-the-point" which came through with this care: "We like your parents. The exact qualifications of a reporter include the hide of a rhinoceros, the patience of a bull, the precision of a cash register, the precision of the temperament of a wire-haired terrier to this he or she should be slightly work all night and on Sundays; and smiling when his stuff has been handled like your parents. They were my choice but I held with me, holding that Betty Kinney, from Seattle were more spectacular, I grant, but not so much might write columns about them but those were there saw it all and enjoyed it. It did not make the trip miss the events of the season. The spectacle "Nature's Luck" was a fine from any comment as they enjoyed the train trip was also part of the help to make the evening more enjoyable.

IT HAS BECOME the habit of the "ten best" movies, plays, books and have you for the year just ended. These lists are few are in complete agreement. This is because what is one man's food is another's poison. As far as books are concerned, the list which is considered fairly good is the list of William Lyons Phelps, author of the Yale University. Phelps is impossible to announce a list of the "best" any year but that it is not difficult to make a list of favorites. Phelps is widely known and has read ten thousand different books and still averages two hundred and fifty a year though he has "retired" according to a biographer. He has probably done more than any other living figure to inculcate the American mind with a reverence for the written and spoken word. In the January issue of the Rotarian magazine he publishes his 1938 list of favorites. Look 'em over and check those you have read. The fiction list includes Testament by R. C. Hutchinson. Dawn in Lyonesse by Mary Ellen Chase. The Door of Life by Enid Bagnold. Images in a Mirror by Sigrid Undset. The Yearling by Marjorie Kinham Rawlings. Old Home Week by Minnie Hite Moody. Kindling by Neil Shute. World's Heaven by Philip Barry. The Kents by Legrand Cannon Jr. The Buccaneers by Edith Wharton. The Mohelton list includes Benjamin Franklin by Carl Van Doren. Alone by Richard E. Byrd. The Greenwood list by J. M. Barrie. My Mind a Kingdom by George Thomas. The Reducibility of Man by Henry C. Link. I'm a Stranger Here Myself by Ogden Nash. Down the Mississippi by Major R. Raven-Hart. Dawn and the Sun by Candace Stone. Does that give you something to work on for your future reading or have you read them all. Careful now!

AND BRENDA FRAZIER, "America's Number One debutante Glamour Girl," has been ordered to bed for a whole week with a severe cold and fatigue experienced by shaking hands with her twelve hundred guests at her "coming out" party last week. This was the party which cost twenty-five or thirty or was it seventy-five thousand dollars to stage. The one with the four cocktail bars and the Christmas trees of catch phrases. The one over which there have been no many opinions expressed with some saying it was a sinful waste of money and others holding that a large percentage of the money went to labor and therefore it was a good thing as it put that amount of money into circulation again. The year's popularity has done one thing for Miss Frazier. It has made her appear to be a complete fool and one cannot help but feel a little sorry for this seventeen year old kid who is starting out life under the handicap of such a party. It is not always the kids born on the wrong side of the railway tracks that are to be pitied. They at least have no opportunity to become what they like before they know what it is all about. But kids like Miss Frazier with her millions. What fun they must have by having nothing to day dream about and how she must avoid the world laughing at her coming out party with its four cocktail bars. If she has sense enough to know that the world is laughing at her brains enough to care that she made a faux pas in the eyes of everyone outside her circle of friends and doubtless, in the eyes of most of them as well.

Sport Gossip

By J. R. A.

This is a pleasing time of the year. One relaxes after the holidays in a retrospective mood, gazes blandly at nothing at all and harks back over the twelve months fast drawing to a close. 1938 will soon be relegated to the ash heap. With this relegation will go fond memories, once vivid, of victories achieved and of the conquest of skill and brains over mere brute strength. One thinks back over the sports conquests of 1938, how they thrilled at the time, how those funny, little prickles went up your spine with the observation of some person or persons going out in front for dear old Kelowna, or of hearing of the feats of some Kelowna person in far off fields. Whew. Better stop now. Perhaps Christmas did something to me after all.

But I will follow the time-honored and almost hallowed custom of reminiscing this season, and review the feats of Kelownians over the twelve-month, and they have been numerous, believe me. Probably one of the brightest spots from an individual standpoint is young Alan France, of badminton fame. Alan made a name for himself aplenty last winter with his ably-wielded racket for he swept through the Central Interior badminton championships and by sheer power, spirit and generalship won the men's singles, boys' singles and mixed doubles championships. Alan is young and has the most promising future of any player in the club. But right alongside Alan and sharing in the shuttle glory was none other than graceful Margaret Taylor who jumped back into the big time with a vengeance. Margaret's first major triumph was the annexation of the British Columbia singles and doubles championships. Then she went to Spokane and won the men's singles championship of the Inland Empire by defeating Mrs. Del Barkuff of Seattle. United States national titleholder. With these victories proudly tucked away, Margaret headed east for the Canadian championships and with Vess O'Shea brought the doubles crown back to the west coast. These are no mean feats which Margaret and Alan have achieved and should go down in the little black book as something pretty near a record.

Another winter sport which is struggling back into the public eye is basketball. That once great favorite of hundreds of fans is having quite a battle with Mr. Critical Fan and it is just about a new right now. But while the team has not been obtaining sufficient support it has been accomplishing many wonders, for last season the Pheasants brought back to Kelowna the B.C. championship in the senior B division, winning over Hoyle-Browns with a comeback which astounded even their most ardent admirers. Then the Kelowna Scouts walked all over Interior competition to win the intermediate B title. That was a fitting climax to a big season, and besides, the basketball club was able to wipe out part of its deficits from other seasons. As the year ends, the basketball club has not been getting very big support, but is hopeful for an upturn soon.

Hockey has never before been anything but a minor league attraction in Kelowna. But during the past year drastic changes have been made. The opening of the big, palatial arena in Vernon set the entire Okanagan agog and provided the impetus the fastest game in the world needed. Thousands of fans from Kelowna visited the big Vernon arena last spring for the hockey finals and as a consequence this fall the ice game has taken big strides forward. As the New Year approaches there is a quantity of hockey material available for several big senior teams and the acquisition of a new rink at Barkhead is a triumph in the next two months. Kelowna will be presented with many hockey bills of fare which should be top ranking.

Curling was a No. 1 attraction for nearly a decade. Kelowna's first curling team in 1937 but the warm winter of 1938 was not conducive to ice making and the game languished. This December has been ideal for the curling game advocates and they are busily engaged sweeping their rocks down the fairways and urging on their teammates with raucous shouts.

But let us get around to some of the summer activities. Baseball, of course, played a big part in the schedule of summer sports, and the lads who are backed by the fans of the Orchard City succeeded in wresting the coveted South Okanagan league championship from the 1937 holders, Beaverdell. Larry Caragadden and his lads had a merry and rollicking summer and the entire season ended with a two out of three series with Penitence for the final round of the Interior championship. Penitence was victorious in a series heart with wrangling and near fights which had the spectators agog from start to finish. Penitence, incidentally went on to whitewash Kamloops and capture the Interior honors so Kelowna did not feel so badly in defeat.

When I get around to the swimming season, one name immediately jumps out in memories as being suitable for Kelowna's No. 1 sports winner. Of course, I refer to Alice Thomson whose powerful swim strokes shared the top honors with the boys of Coast athletes who had attained British Empire honors. Alice not only covered

WILLOUGHBY AND BARDSLEY SPARK THE CANADIAN CHAMPIONS TO 54-37 VICTORY OVER KELOWNA PHEASANTS

Vancouver Westerns Stage Sparkling Show on New Year's Day Matinee Game—Great Third Period Rally Saves Local Quintette from Suffering Bad Beating

TWO reasons why Westerns from Vancouver are Canadian champions displayed their wares at the Scout hall on Monday afternoon in such a convincing way that the champs came out on the extremely long end of a 54-37 count against the Golden Pheasants, who played a stout contest withal. These two reasons were none other than Arthur "Burr" Willoughby and Jimmy "Bugs" Bardsley, two lads who have become well known throughout the province for their athletic prowess.

Willoughby Scored 19

It was Willoughby who scored 19 points against the University of Washington in Vancouver recently, so the Pheasants do not need to feel so badly that this young sharpshooter gave himself just that many again last Monday. Bardsley was right behind with another 14 points, but it was really Willoughby and Bardsley who were the star of the contest. This slippery cager started most of the plays and was the clever floor general.

For the first ten minutes of the game, neither side had much of an advantage. Westerns being out in front by a 9-4 lead, due to two baskets by Willoughby and a basket and two free shots scored by Jack Gordon. Herbert and Pettman were the only scorers for Kelowna.

But with the appearance of Jimmy Bardsley, Willoughby's running mate, things changed considerably. And those two snipers rolled in 14 points in ten minutes, while each other member of the squad contributed one each. Westerns, with two minutes to go in the first period had a lead of 29-6, but Johnston and Owen scored in rapid succession, to leave the intermission tally at 31-10.

Westerns bombarded the hoop at the opening of the second period, but could not click as monotonously as before. George McKay came into the game at the opening, and after he and Johnston had missed a couple of sitters, McKay started clicking. His performance spurred Harold Pettman on to better things, and Harold's shots, which had been wild, began to flash through.

Fifteen Points in Row

In that third quarter, three of last year's senior B hoop champions, showed that they are still better than the younger Scouts who are trying out for positions on the Pheasant line-up. McKay, Pettman and Johnston went through for 19 points against the Canadian champs, while Westerns were held to 7 markers. Kelowna scored 15 points in a row before Westerns replied, and brought the score within striking distance at 37-29 by three-quarter time.

But the Westerns had had their scare and were taking no more chances. They dug in furiously and outscored the Pheasants 16-8 in the final canto, Willoughby again taking the lead with another six points.

Most of this player's shots were scored from middle distance out, around the foul line, and he played deadly from this distance. Bardsley was more inclined to flip them in from underneath, while big Jo-Jo Ross and Ralph "Hunk" Henderson, with their extra height and reach were dynamite on picking off rebounds. Al Beaton and Jack Gordon were in a lot of plays, but did not show to the advantage of their teammates.

Bill Ward Fitted

Against such strenuous opposition the younger players did not show to any advantage. Bill Ward being the only member who fitted in Ryan was lost against Westerns while even Herbert did not respond as he has in previous contests.

Harold Pettman was top scorer with an even dozen, while George McKay was trailing him with nine points. Ward and Johnston helped themselves to six points each.

In the preliminary contest two local Intermediate A teams tangled. Jim Tostenson's squad being victorious over his brother Carl's five by a close 42-26 count.

The teams lined up as follows:

Int A Yellow: 12 J. Tostenson 3. Lattimer 6. Hume 3. Treadgold 4. 32

Int A Red: C. Tostenson 9. Noble 2. James 2. Handlen 9. Hill 6. Ward 20

Vancouver Westerns: J. Bardsley 14. Willoughby 19. Ross 2. Beaton 5. Gordon 8. Henderson 6. 64

Kelowna Pheasants: Griffiths 10. Owen 2. Herbert 2. Ward 6. Johnston 6. Chapman 12. McKay 9. Ryan 37

Referee: C. Pettman and Armstrong

CLASH WITH ARMSTRONG CANCELLED

The scheduled hockey clash between Armstrong and Kelowna at the Bank head rink on Monday night, January 2, was postponed because of the soft condition of the ice. However, with the tightening of the weather on Tuesday evening it is anticipated that skating and hockey practices will continue this week-end. Last night a strong squad of juniors from this city traveled to Vernon for their first inter-city clash of the season.

SKI FILM WILL BE SHOWN TO CLUB

Instructions on Turns and Other Maneuvers Will be Interesting

Members of the Kelowna Ski Club executive were given a preview on Tuesday evening of the fifteen-minute ski instruction film which was procured for the club by Max dePuyff from his brother, who is an instructor at Yosemite. This film is to be shown to ski club members and others interested at the Aquatic lounge on Thursday, January 12.

The Ski club executive was delighted with the film, which was shown over Capt. Jack Horn's projector, loaned for the occasion. Part of the film was in slow motion, and showed exactly how to maneuver the intricate turns and other delicate movements connected with skiing.

General discussion will follow the showing of the film as to how to better skiing practices here, and plans will be laid for the balance of the winter's sport, it is anticipated.

Regular classes will also be resumed at the Gyro Knox Mountain centre with boxing and wrestling on Wednesday evenings and gym classes on Thursdays and the junior boys' class on Friday, January 13.

Added to the Kelowna district centres is the Okanagan Mission centre, which commences on January 9. The women's class will meet at 7:30 o'clock and the men turn out at 8:45 o'clock. MISSION PREPARES FOR SKATING RINK

Sinking Well to Flood Tennis Courts—Nineteen Pound Fish Caught

There is more activity to be seen at the Mission tennis courts just now than was the case during the whole of the past summer. Several of the younger people are devoting their spare time to the task of sinking a well and installing a motor driven pump, so that the three courts may be flooded for winter top-skating. Water will also be available for keeping the clay courts in shape for tennis in summer.

The scheme, first discussed early last fall, would provide a rink of about 1500 sq. ft. and its sponsors are to be congratulated on their enterprise; it may not be possible to have the rink in operation this season, as much depends on the depth of the well.

Mr. C. F. Satorius started the 1939 skating season well by taking a 19 lb fish off the Eldorado in the Mission bay on Monday the 2nd. He was fishing a plug on Japanese gut line.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Outnar and daughter returned to Vancouver on New Year's Day after spending the Christmas holiday in the Mission.

A large number of Mission people took to the Rotary tea carnival at Vernon last Thursday. Most of them took advantage of the special train.

Leading Scorer

Since the first scoring records of the season were issued some weeks ago by the National League the constant leader has been the veteran Chicago Black Hawk stick-handling act, Johnny Gottselig. Johnny, Russian-born product of western Canada amateur leagues, is in his 13th year with the Hawks.

On Saturday, January 7, a team from the Kelowna badminton club will play at Peachland.

BIG BOBCAT SHOT NEAR SUMMERLAND

Son Beats Off Animal with Club—Father Shoots it Next Day

Eric Tait, while tramping along the trails on Trout Creek Point, near Summerland, Thursday afternoon of last week, heard vicious growls behind him and, turning about, saw a big bobcat stalking him. Being without a gun, Eric hastily grabbed a stout stick and beat the animal off, but could not get in a sufficiently telling blow to stun it.

Uneasy with an animal about with such a nasty disposition, Magnus Tait, Eric's father, set out next morning to hunt it down.

Mr. Tait did not have a rifle, but took his shotgun and started after the cat. It was not long before he picked up its trail and shortly met up with the animal still in a combative mood, for it made for him, too, crouching and ready to spring.

Mr. Tait discovered that the cat had found the body of a dead calf and had been feeding on that. It was busy eating and did not hear Mr. Tait until he was quite close, and promptly showed fight. With only the shotgun, Mr. Tait waited until the animal was within a few yards before firing.

The cat weighed 20 pounds and measured 2 feet 6 inches from tip to tip. It is many years since one of these animals has been in this vicinity. In the early days James Gartrell used to get them occasionally.

WESTERNS MAKE IT THREE STRAIGHT

Westerns continued their triumphant tour of the Interior on Monday evening by defeating Penticton senior by a 64-41 count, while Summerland took it on the chin by a 41-26 count.

COME EARLY FOR A GOOD SEAT

on behalf of my confreres and myself I wish to corroborate the remarks of His Worship the mayor, and express the regrets of this council on the retirement of Aldermen Whittell and Sutherland, as has been said. Mr. Mayor says "Alderman Whittell's experience and judgment has been invaluable to the citizens and interpreters of Kelowna." He has always handled the chairmanship of the department to which he was appointed with credit to himself and to the satisfaction of the other council members.

"Alderman Sutherland's chairmanship of the relief department was a credit to him in orderly handling of a difficult department. Trust that the citizens of Kelowna will make use of the experience of these two gentlemen again, not too distant time, and we will soon see their family faces at the council board."

In reply Alderman Whittell stated that he had done the best he could for the council and had enjoyed his terms of office to the utmost. He knew men deliberations in the future would be of benefit to the city as a whole.

I thank you very kindly for your remarks declared Alderman Sutherland, "and I wish the mayor and council every success in the coming year."

Following adjournment of the 1930 council the two new members, Dave Chapman, Mrs. T. Freckhold and Charles T. Hubbard were sworn in by City Clerk G. G. Durr, there was a general meeting and business was then continued on in office for the first time.

C. P. R. PROPERTY VALUED AT $12,000

Lakeshore Lot Sale Price to City Set by C. A. Cottrell

Mayor O. L. Jones informed the 1930 council last Friday that he had interviewed C. A. Cottrell, general manager of western lines of the C. P. R. regarding the purchase of C. P. R. land along Pacific property at the end of Bernard avenue, and at the end of Abbott street. The purchase price set by the railway company for Lot plan 2207 is $12,000, he stated.

Alderman Whittell advised the 1930 council to take speedy action in purchasing the property and beautifying this section of the lake front.

Discussion between Mayor Jones and Mr. Cottrell had arisen from the proposed council plan of acquiring the lake front property in this vicinity, improving the foreshore and eventually creating a city hall there.

IN NO COMMERCIAL USE

Mrs. F. M. Postill objected to the city council on Friday to bring charges as a commercial use of electric light. It was stated that although her property was originally planned as a tourist camp it would be some time before it could be used for such. In the light of this statement, the council concurred in reclassifying her property as a domestic use.

WANTS SIDEWALKS CLEAR OF SNOW

Bylaw Governing Subject Not Practical States Mayor Jones

Would it not be possible to keep sidewalks, particularly those in the business area free from snow? queried Alderman Catter at the council session on Friday evening.

Mayor O. L. Jones replied that on his own property, he would not be compelled to keep the sidewalks abutting their property free from snow and refuse, but that the bylaw has not been enforced. He doubted if the bylaw is practical for owners of residential property agreed that it could be of great advantage if the property owners in the city would cooperate.

The subject of removing snow from the sidewalks was referred to the public works department for action.

NO CHANGES IN APPLE PRICES AT THIS TIME

Shippers More Optimistic After Reviewing Stocks on Hand and Prospects in Sight

Meeting in Kelowna on Wednesday morning the shippers' special committee and the B.C. Fruit Board decided not to make any major changes in the existing prices on available apple stocks. The general feeling was that the situation has strengthened considerably in the past few weeks and this opinion was borne out by the figures produced by the board.

On December 24 the balance unsold was computed at 1,415,308 boxes, and the estimated shrinkage from this figure was set at 84,870 boxes, leaving a balance of 1,330,438.

Sales since that date totalled 113,911, leaving a balance at this date of 1,216,527. The estimated export shipment still to leave the Okanagan have been placed at 194,262, while export shipments after December 31, 1937, were 379,921 boxes. At that time the stocks on hand amounted to 1,182,545 boxes.

Major shippers have expressed every confidence that the German export market will still be opened to the Okanagan, and if so, some 200 extra cars of export shipments will be realized. With 200 German cars, the export shipments in prospect for this year will be right up to last year's actual shipments.

Only prices set by the combined meeting were for late sundries, at 95 cents for wrapped and 80 cents for face and jumble.

There has been practically no change in the price structure on Okanagan apples since the opening prices were set last fall. Only one or two changes in large sized apples for special markets have been made.

KELOWNA RESPONDS TO ICE CARNIVAL APPEAL IN VERNON

Nearly 400 Persons from this District Travel North for Big Rotary Ice Carnival

Another stirring example of the spirit which Kelowna citizens give to big ventures in neighboring cities was evidenced on Thursday last. December 29, when nearly 400 residents of Kelowna and district attended the big Rotary Ice Carnival in Vernon when skating, ice cream, Vancouver Seattle and other coast centres participated.

On the special Canadian National train which left Kelowna at 5:00 o'clock Thursday evening, over 200 Kelowna citizens, while another 43 were picked up in the Kelowna district as the train proceeded on to Vernon. Another 50 persons are believed to have made the trip north by car for the evening performance, while a number took in the afternoon matinee.

The carnival itself was of outstanding merit and delighted the huge crowd which filled almost every available seat in the large arena. Betty Lee, Burnett and John Kinney of Seattle, were two of the outstanding performers. Miss Wanda Roth, entirely covered with gold paint, performed most effectively as a statue during the famous "Lullaby" Mother Nature's lullaby.

Mary and Janet, two big attractive daughters of hockey legend, "Cy" Taylor of Vancouver, were popular favorites, and the big crowd with their inspiration of the Lambeth Walk.

Peter Forshaw, Florence Campbell, Constance and George, Field, Carol, Stewart, Florence, Chapman and Geoff Woodward of the Vancouver skating club were among the other headliners in the performance of 21 selections.

RESOLUTIONS ARE RESULT OF ONE'S WORTHY AMBITIONS

Dr. W. W. McPherson Speaks on Topical Subject on New Year's Sunday Evening Service

Because men and women have worthy ambitions to rise to a higher type of civilization they make New Year's resolutions to help them in their endeavor to improve upon the preceding year. Dr. W. W. McPherson told the Young People's Society of the United Church New Year's Sunday evening.

He invited the young people to suggest why resolutions are made, what they consist of, and why they are usually broken. It was suggested that most people were not satisfied with themselves regarding health, religion, prosperity and in other ways and they were intent upon making an effort to rise in respect and usefulness.

Some excellent ideas were given for resolutions as eating less, and rejecting harmful foods, rising earlier, more regular church attendance, developing oneself along cultural lines for refinement, and being more friendly to others.

Reasons why resolutions are usually disregarded soon after being made were given as: Being harder to practice than was thought before starting to apply them, loss of ambition, carelessness, and the setting of one's ways which slows down inclination to change.

INCREASED TARIFF WEIGHTS STOPPED

Wenatchee Apple Growers Jubilant as Railroad Move Suspended

Wenatchee fruit growers are jubilant with the announcement from the inter-lake committee commission that traffic filed by railroad in the United States is proposed to increase estimated weights on shipments of vegetable and dry beans from 100 to 125 pounds per bushel for a year for investigation.

Wenatchee, situated at the added cost to the Wenatchee growers on the balance of this year's crop, had the railroad, but had been passed success fully. It had been in the neighborhood of $400,000, and the addition would have amounted to 2 cents per bushel of fruit, or 4 cents per bushel of beans. The extra cost on an average annual crop was placed at $400,000.

OKANAGAN SAYS FAREWELL TO F.B. "MONTY" COSSITT

Popular Pioneer of Vernon and North Okanagan Laid to Rest At Age of 75

Kelowna, in keeping with the rest of the Okanagan, felt saddened at the New Year with the news from Vernon of the passing of one of the most colorful and highly respected pioneers of the Okanagan—F. B. Cossitt, aged 75. He passed away on Saturday, December 31, at his Vernon home.

Born in Smith's Falls, Ont., in 1863, "Monty" Cossitt, as he was affectionately known to hundreds of friends throughout the Okanagan, he moved to Vernon in 1909 after selling out the Cossitt Manufacturing Co. in Brockville, Ont., of which he was general manager.

Always a prominent Liberal in politics, Mr. Cossitt was for many years president of the Vernon and district Liberal association and in 1926 he contested the Yale riding against Grote Stirling. He was slated for a seat in the Canadian Senate, as well.

To Kelowna persons, Monty Cossitt and the Kelowna Regatta have always been closely associated, as he was always proud of the fact that for more than 25 years he never missed one of these annual functions in this city. He was a familiar figure at numerous gatherings throughout the Okanagan and had taken an active part in board of trade circles for years.

Since 1934, Mr. Cossitt had been president of the Interior Provincial Exhibition Association and had been one of its most enthusiastic members. He was always one of the most diligent supporters and never missed a meeting. Two years ago he left the hospital in Vernon against doctor's orders to attend the annual meeting.

Funeral services for Mr. Cossitt was held from All Saints' church in Vernon on Tuesday afternoon and a large number of friends from all points in the Okanagan gathered to pay their last respects to one who had helped in the moulding of the Okanagan and had always been considered a "regular" fellow in the bargain.

CAT RETURNS HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

Walked 55 Miles to Its Former Home from Mining Camp

Home for Christmas. The slogan so widely popular during the Christmas season was vividly adopted by a Revelstoke cat which walked into its former home last before Christmas. It was a somewhat prolonged absence, but its trip home was much more noteworthy than the efforts of humans because it had come on foot from a camp 55 miles up the Big Bend highway.

The cat was identified by a number of Revelstoke people as one which had been taken up to a mining camp during the past summer. The camp closed down over a month ago and the conditions of the cat's paws indicated that it had had a difficult time in reaching Revelstoke.

SENDS CHECK FOR TREES

The 1939 council on Friday made a payment by E. W. Burton for the Retail Merchants' Bureau of $10 for Christmas trees placed on Bernard Avenue. It has been the custom of late years for the bureau to pay for the trees and the city to provide the illuminated decorations.

For the last two days general gossip on Bernard Avenue has stated that W. B. Calder, government liquor vendor for Kelowna, had been refused by Mr. Calder, dealer in rum and gin, and that it has no foundation. It had also been stated that G. H. Tait was to have obtained the appointment in Mr. Calder's place, and he likewise denies the story.

LEWIS DUNCAN LOSES TORONTO ELECTION FIGHT

Day Given 40,000 Majority—Communists Fair Poorly

Lewis Duncan, R.C., well known in the Okanagan as the man who conducted the Nash investigation several years ago, failed in his bid for the mayoralty of the city of Toronto on Monday. Mr. Lewis, running against Mayor Ralph Day, polled 33,393 votes while Day's total of 93,000 was the largest ever given a candidate in Toronto.

The keenest interest in the election was the fight of Tim Buck, Communist, for a seat on the board of control. Buck, secretary of the Canadian Communist Party, ran sixth for the four available seats. One of the five Communist candidates who ran as aldermen was elected.

NO CHANGE IN LIQUOR VENDOR

For the last two days general gossip on Bernard Avenue has stated that W. B. Tait was to have obtained the appointment in Mr. Calder's place, and he likewise denies the story.

BENVOLIN
The regular monthly meeting of the Benvoulin W.A. was held on Tuesday of this week at the home of Mrs. J. Smith in Kelowna. Reports for the year were given showing very satisfactory progress. A paper written by Dr. Edward D. Grant on the "Madras Conference" and read by Mrs. Fisher proved very interesting and informative. There was no change in the executive, the present officers carrying on for another year. Tea was served by the hostess at the conclusion of the business.
Mrs. Turner of Calgary arrived on Monday the 29th on an extended visit to her son Mr. Rolf Turner and family.
Mrs. Gladys Reid and her mother Mrs. Hall motored down to Oliver last Wednesday returning on Friday.
Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hall and family of Oliver were holiday visitors at the home of Mrs. R. Hall and her daughter Mrs. Gladys Reid, other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Watt and son Eric from Soda Creek, Cariboo, and Miss Hardy of Vernon.

PEACHLAND ROADS IMPROVE AFTER THAW
Hazardous Driving for Week—No Snow Along Lake Level
Road conditions through Peachland district are now good following a week of hazardous driving because of ice. The heavy snowfall of December 26, when close to a foot of snow covered the ground, left the highway so slippery that the Deep Creek hill had to be sanded to allow motor traffic to proceed. With the thaw starting on Friday morning accompanied by a light rain, the roads were worse than ever with water covering the ice and the sanding had to be continued until the bare ground began to show. Now the roads are clear with no signs of snow along the lake level and very little snow for two miles back from the lake.
The report that the mail truck overturned in a snow drift December 22 as given in the Peachland news of last week was an error, the truck being delayed on that date because of waiting for connections from the north. This report was received from reliable sources and considered authentic and your correspondent regrets being responsible for the publishing of a false report and any inconvenience that it may have caused.
A most enjoyable dance was held by the athletic association Friday, December 30, in the athletic hall. Due to the poor roads there was a small crowd from outside points, Summerland and Westbank, but the local crowd was good and the dancing enjoyed until the early hours of the morning. Music was supplied by the Pentleton Bell Boys and refreshments by the executive of the Association.
G. Stevenson left December 26 for Vancouver and Victoria where he will spend the winter months.
Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Clements are being congratulated on the arrival of a daughter, born December 29 in the Kelowna Hospital.
Mr. and Mrs. Bush of Vernon arrived on Tuesday morning to spend a holiday at the home of their son G. Garlinge.
Mr. and Mrs. George Topham and children of Kelowna spent the Christmas holiday at the home of Mr. Topham's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Topham.
Mr. and Mrs. G. Garlinge had as their guests for several days last week Mr. and Mrs. V. Evans and baby daughter of Bear Creek.
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wilson and young son of Squokey River, Alta., are spending the holiday season at the home of Mr. Wilson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wilson.
H. Sutherland returned last week from Vancouver where he was under treatment at the Shaughnessy Military Hospital.
Mrs. E. Neil and infant daughter returned from the Kelowna Hospital to spend Christmas at home.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Pasenko returned on Friday morning, December 30 after a trip to Seattle.
Miss Sheila McKay of Pentleton was a week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Vincent.
H. Rainey returned to Kelowna on Wednesday, December 28th after spending the Christmas holiday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Stewart.

A meeting of the Court of honor was held at the home of the Scoutmaster on Friday last, December 30th with the following attending: A.S.M. Peter Ritchie, Troop Leader Dennis Reid, Patrol Leaders Basil Bond, Geoffrey Smith and Jim Duncan, and Scouts Cliff Schell and Jack Wandless, and the Scoutmaster. A welcome visitor was former A.S.M. Ken Bond who dropped in for a while for old time's sake. Plans for the winter season were made and include holding a tribute Scout meeting on Friday, January 20th in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Local Association. In February the troop plan to act as hosts to the Kelowna Scouts at an Indoor Track Meet and supper in honour of

Spotlight
Alderman W. B. Hughes-Games

With the resumption of the Spotlight after the busy holiday season has passed, we take up the aldermanic list and present to you a shining, new figure in the civic spotlight—William Bower Hughes-Games. Of slight stature, with sandy hair, or at least what there is left, and quick, nervous gestures, "Bill" Hughes-Games has become a familiar figure on Bernard avenue, where he has interests in two businesses. He is successful in the aldermanic race at the recent civic elections, and goes into harness at the first of the year.
Mr. Hughes-Games has some definite ideas on the government of the country and is intensely interested in socialism. He is not hide-bound in his beliefs regarding socialism, but believes that theoretically it is the only solution to the world's problems. He realizes that it will take years to put into effect the doctrines of the socialistic order but he believes that it is the progressive thought for the present day world.
If only leaders in the various countries would sit down around a big table and discuss their mutual problems there would be no need for the strife and turmoil of the present day, he feels sure. He is a great believer in compromise and in round-table discussions to iron out the difficulties and differences between men and countries. He believes that practically all men have their good points, but they are not always to be observed at first glance. It is only after heart-to-heart discussions, that one can really judge his fellow man, he firmly believes.
Bill Hughes-Games is taking an open mind into the council sessions. He has no prejudices, and will look on all sides of every problem, he states. He has certain ideas concerning the council and its activities, but no prejudices, he hastens to say.
It was on Valentine's Day, February 14, 1930, that W. B. Hughes-Games came into the world at Birmingham, England. He attended three schools, a private school at Birkenhead, King William's College on the Isle of Man and Shrewsbury School. Following his studies, he was apprenticed in the family firm of cotton merchants, one of the biggest firms of its kind in the British Isles. For five years he worked with that firm, but he could plainly see that continuations of the work and taking of a partnership in the business, which was offered to him, would mean a humdrum existence and he would never have an opportunity to broaden himself.
As a consequence he set forth in 1911 and came west to Canada, with the idea of working his way around the world. British Columbia was the farthest point he reached. First he reached Calgary and found a new subdivision proceeding merrily, so he opened a store in that section. He tired of his general store in a hurry, however, and sold out in three months, making $200 profit on the transaction.
Next he wandered through B.C. and eventually landed in Vancouver and started another enterprise. This transaction, however, was not as successful as his Calgary venture, and he went back to the States. Starting right from the bottom, he obtained position as steward on one of the Union's teams boats out of Vancouver, and to use his own vernacular, he was "slinging hash" for about six months. He was promoted to assistant purser but after that decided he liked solid ground better and he retired from the life of a seaman.
From 1912 to 1914 he obtained respectable positions in the Balfour-Guthrie importing company and with the London & British North America Co., a financial firm. It was at 5 p.m., on August 4, 1914, that W. B. Hughes-Games heard of the declaration of war and by 7:30 o'clock he, together with some 200 others, had joined the 72nd militia, which afterwards became the Canadian Scottish.
Our spotlighter went overseas and was gassed and wounded in the second battle of Ypres and had to be removed to London. He entered the war as a private and after twice turning down opportunities of commissions in London, he developed tuberculosis and his health broke down badly, so he was sent back to Canada and for the next year was a patient in Tranquille.
Before Mr. Hughes-Games left the Old Country for service in France, the birthday of Baden Powell. Plans were made to start work on the annual concert in February and to have the concert ready for presentation by Easter.
A new Patrol competition starts with this week's meeting and all men until Easter. Following the usual practice the patrols will fall in when parading, in the order of their standing in the competition just finished. The basketball games will be continued, and this week the Foxes and Beavers are scheduled to meet.

GLENMORE LAD INJURED SKIING PARTY AT CENTRE HAS FINE PROGRAM
Bruce Moubray Injures Finger Skiing
Mrs. Stocks, who had been a guest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. H. Moubray, for the past two weeks, left on Tuesday for her home in Pentleton.
A solo, sung by Miss Mildred Hume at the church service last Sunday morning, was much enjoyed by the congregation. Miss Hume, left on Monday afternoon, to resume her studies at Seattle, after spending two weeks at her home here.
The holiday season passed off very quietly, with the exception of the usual family gatherings, the Christmas tree and a dance. The dance, which was put on by the Social Club, on Friday evening last, was a huge success. Although the evening was rainy and disagreeable, there was a good crowd, all having a good time. With Charles Henderson as floor manager, and poppy music by the Glenmore orchestra, the dancing continued until a late or "early" hour.
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Burrell returned to their home at Osoyoos, on Sunday last, after spending two weeks with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hartwick.
Owing to the heavy snow storm early last week, which fell on the roads, it was impossible for Mr. Wyatt to get through from Penticton by the mail on Tuesday, but on Wednesday the snow plow was out to work and the roads were cleared. Since the rain on Friday, they have been in a very slippery condition again, and skating on the ponds is at an end for the time being.
Early last week while Bruce Moubray was being pulled on skis behind the family car, the rope he was holding formed a noose around one of his fingers, tearing the flesh badly. Although very painful for a time, it is healing nicely.
Mr. Sam Pearson Jr. left on Monday for Vancouver, where he will take a course in Diesel engineering.

INDIAN BOY HAS PICTURE ACCEPTED
Francis Baptiste's Painting is Chosen for Lorc on Showing
Francis Baptiste's picture "Indian Boys in Training" has been selected by the Royal Drawing Society, of London, England, for their King Edward and Queen Alexandra Memorial Collection.
This is believed to be the first time that a Canadian boy has won such a distinction.
The painting, which is done on buckskin, was seen by the King and Queen this spring and was then on display at the Empire fair at Glasgow, where thousands of people saw it.
Francis Baptiste is at present studying Indian art at Santa Fe, New Mexico, and is a former pupil of the Ink-mech school near Oliver.

SEA-GOING BRICKS
RIGA The brick industry in Latvia is a sea-going business. With production more than ample for the home market Latvian bricks lately have begun to look for markets abroad.
Chief obstacle has been the problem of transport which was rather expensive. Now by deepening the river Lodepe as far as Jelgava, sea-going vessels have been enabled to enter this port and to load cargo direct from there. Jelgava is the centre of the most important brick manufacturing district in Latvia. Several shipments of bricks have already been made to Sweden.

Canada Eagerly Awaits Visit of King and Queen

Cabinet Sub-Committee Drafts Plans for Historic Tour

The visit to Canada next summer of Their Majesties the King and Queen will call for prodigious preparation by the Dominion Government, in cooperation with provincial, municipal and other agencies. A cabinet committee, headed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King and a cabinet sub-committee headed by Under Secretary of State Ephraim Herbert Coleman have already started to draw up a tentative program. Final plans, it is expected, will not be ready until February or March.

Each detail of the trip will be announced as it is approved. Their Majesties will cross the Atlantic in the H.M.S. Repulse and will land at Quebec May 15. It is understood that they will sail from Halifax June 10 although suggestions are being made through Ottawa to have their stay extended beyond that date.

It is pointed out that under present plans calling for the King and Queen to do the very minimum of night travelling that it will be practically impossible to travel across Canada and back and make a four day trip to Washington in the allotted time.

The only thing definite about the trip so far known is that the itinerary will be so arranged to have King George and Queen Elizabeth see as much of Canada and Canadians as possible. Social functions to which only a selected group would be permitted will be held to a minimum. Also, by order-in-council, it has been arranged for Canada to celebrate the King's birthday May 20, to coincide with his visit to Ottawa.

The whole program will need to be arranged after exclusive consultation with the Lord Chamberlain, or whoever is detailed by His Majesty, to make the arrangements. The custom is that every place to be visited and every item in the program arranged for the reception of Their Majesties must have their antecedent approval. The customary usage on previous occasions on the visits of royalty has embraced in each place the presentation of an address of welcome and a formal reply. After that, the programs have varied. Usually they have included visits to points of interest, of attendance at some function especially arranged for the occasion. No doubt this general line will be followed on the high occasion of the visit of the King and Queen. As is known, no reigning monarch has ever come to Canada before, although King Edward VII, as Prince of Wales, King George V, as Duke of Cornwall and York, and King Edward VIII, as Prince of Wales, toured Canada before ascending the Throne.

June will be particularly suited to the holding of outdoor receptions. Probably there will be a garden party on the grounds of Rideau Hall in Ottawa, anyway, and possibly in other places. In this city it is thought one function will take the form of a Royal Court similar to what is held at Buckingham Palace. The scene of this might be either Government House or the Senate Chamber in the Houses of Parliament. Society will be a dither over the occasion, and in the event of a court being held, the demands for presentation may exceed the capacities of Their Majesties to receive the multitude.

Toronto is very much exercised over where the King and Queen will stay when in that city. Previously, royalty was entertained at the official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province. There is a very elaborate building of the kind, but it has fallen into disuse since Premier Mitchell Hepburn and his government decided that it was an unnecessary luxury to maintain. It is now closed up. The Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Albert Matthews, lives in the same home that he did before his appointment. If a private residence is chosen, the making of envy are seen in the selection of whoever is to have the high honor of entertaining the King and Queen. It is even proposed, by way of compromise, that they might stay on the Royal train, but officials at Ottawa are not prepared to encourage that. If

MEMEL, TROUBLE SPOT ON BAL TIC, AGAIN IN NEWS

View of Memel and its location

Memel, object of German ambitions to expand along the Baltic, once again takes the news spotlight following the smashing pro-Nazi victory in the Diet election in Memel territory. Kaunas, capital of Lithuania, and Kaunas province were put under a state of emergency. What lies in store for Memel territory, taken from Germany after the world war and handed to Lithuania, is uncertain.

any other solution is found it will probably be in the taking over of a complete floor of the principal hotel in the city, and if necessary, fitting it up with becoming luxury.

Arrangements for the greatest protection of Their Majesties at all points will be worked out by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who, it is anticipated, will confer with Scotland Yard. An enquiry of the King, it is understood, will come to Canada well in advance of the trip to inspect all the arrangements, and finally pass upon the program.

The royal stay in any one place will not be lengthy. If the tour is to be confined to three weeks and the whole country visited, approximately half of the time must be spent in travelling. The presumption is that each province will be embraced in the tour, otherwise there would be feelings of discrimination and resentment would be caused. In any event, the custom has always been to have the longest stay in Ottawa, the Capital. Perhaps the main function, proposed here, will be the unveiling of the magnificent War Memorial, which has just been erected.

There is no foundation for the report that His Majesty might be asked to officiate at the prorogation of the Canadian Parliament. The whole desire will be to expedite the proceedings of that body so that the session may be concluded well in advance of the arrival of the King and Queen. It is never possible to determine to a day just when Parliament may finish its work, and particularly not in what may prove to be the final session preceding an election. The government will require a considerable space of time after the session to perfect the details of the tour organization. Among the addresses to be presented will be one from the Senate and House of Commons. All these are prepared and sent in advance so that the reply will be ready for the presentation.

Many Canadians would relish the idea of titles being conferred upon some who will be most prominently identified with arrangements for the tour. This happened after the visit of the Duke of Cornwall and York, King George V, but since then titular distinctions have practically been abolished. They did have a restricted revival in the time of the Bennett government, but the present government holds to the view that, when the Parliament of 1918 asked His Majesty not to confer any further titular distinctions in Canada, its effect was binding until the resolution is rescinded. Efforts in later years to have this done have failed to get anything like agreement for a rescinding resolution.

The government of Canada will spare no expense to make the reception worthy of the great and unprecedented occasion and to vest it with all the eclat and glamour to which royalty, in its supreme station, is entitled. Probably half a million dollars will be spent for this purpose. A thousand details have to be worked out by the committees which will co-ordinate all the proposed programs and generally harmonize the arrangements.

MAKING CANADA A Better Place in Which to Live and Work

A Series of Letters from Distinguished Canadians on Vital Problems Affecting the Future Welfare of Canada

Specially Written for Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association

Dear Sir:

In asking me to offer any suggestion that would assist the rural weekly newspapers in making Canada a better place in which to live and work, you are giving me a rather large order.

Localism is perhaps one of the besting sins of the weekly newspaper, as of most of our local communities. It would seem to me that one of the greatest contributions that a weekly could make would be to give the people a better understanding of the world in which we all must live.

(a) A better understanding of people. We in this country are coming to be quite heterogeneous. It is very easy to play up the native-born and to play down foreign immigrants, very easy to set Orangemen against Catholics and visa versa; not so easy to get each group to understand the other. Further, the world today is shrinking. It took some of our ancestors nearly three months to cross the Atlantic, now it can be crossed in about a day. Our knowledge of the various nations has not kept pace with this growing proximity. It is still easy to start up racial animosity that may lead to war.

(b) We need a better understanding of modern movements, political and otherwise. It is perhaps inevitable that in the heat of an election campaign the rival parties present their own points of view as strongly as possible. Surely between election there ought to be some opportunity for an OPEN FORUM in which various groups will have the opportunity of presenting their distinctive policies and points of view. We cannot get rid of movements that we do not like simply by ignoring or denouncing them. We must understand them.

(c) We should have a better understanding of modern economic developments. We Canadians are only one or two generations removed from early pioneer life. Our ideals are still largely close to the pioneers. Our policies tend to lag behind, yet in reality we must work out our destinies in a highly complex industrial society. Surely every citizen should have some little knowledge of the actual world in which he lives. I sometimes put it that there are two questions we could all learn to answer—"How did we get this way?" and "Where do we go from here?"

I would suggest that without attempting anything sensational or spectacular you could carry out my suggestions, to use your own phrase in a quiet, effective, and practical way.

Yours sincerely,
J. S. WOODSWORTH,
Leader, Canadian Commonwealth Federation, Ottawa.

LIECHTENSTEIN IS STILL AT WAR WITHOUT ARMY

Tiny Nation of Ten Thousand Persons Has Been Technically at War Since 1866

VADUZ—Liechtenstein, vest-pocket nation of 10,000 persons who live in the shadow of the Alps bordering what used to be Austria, is, for lack of a peace treaty, still technically at war with Italy and Prussia—and has been since 1866.

In that year, prodded by Bismarck's expansion demands for Prussia, Austria declared war on Prussia and Italy. Liechtenstein's ruling prince, Johann II, called out 81 men to fight on the Austrians' side. Liechtenstein was forgotten by the diplomats who signed treaties ending the war.

Today the nonagenarian Andreas Kieber is his country's sole veteran of military service, and is entitled to call himself general or private, whichever he wishes, of Liechtenstein's armed forces. The armed force, since Prince Johann's abolition of the army in 1868, consists of seven policemen.

Army Unnecessary
But a large military force is unnecessary for so small a state, folks here say, remembering the days when Prince Franz conducted his state affairs by telephone. Prince Franz, whose title included Paula I. von und zu Liechtenstein, was Austrian Ambassador to Russia in his early years and succeeded Prince Johann II in 1929. He and his wealthy Viennese bride were art patrons, and their combined art collection was declared to be the finest private collection in the world, even rivaling that of the Louvre in Paris. Prince Johann once gave the Austrian National Galleries 6,000 paintings, worth $20,000,000, in one lump present.

But Prince Franz's reign was not long, and his passing last July left his nephew, Prince Franz Joseph, to continue his benevolent rule. Benevolent, perhaps, because Liechtenstein has no taxes. This 65 square-mile section of the Rhine Valley, formerly a province of Charlemagne's Holy Roman Empire, and the last of 44 old independent German principalities, is too small to find enough expenditures to merit taxes. Indeed, a war once marked that when Prince Franz's pet dog wagged its tail, it swished across the border of the two adjoining nations—Austria and Switzerland.

$100,000,000 Fortune
But farmers and mountaineers who dwell there can thank Prince Johann for the taxless state. He owned a fortune of $100,000,000, with holdings in Austria, Czechoslovakia and Germany. He had 30 castles in Austria alone, including a luxurious palace in Vienna. One of his eccentricities was that he never attended the magnificent fetes he gave in his Vienna palace. Many of his estates were larger than Liechtenstein, but that tiny State, from which his family took its name, was his favorite and he paid all expenses of government.

Prince Franz I inherited his wealth but refused to pay more than $100,000 a year to Liechtenstein. He quashed recent agitation for a republic by threatening to cut off the money. His subjects found that sum sufficient to pay the salaries of the seven policemen, plus all the rest of the administrative expenses.

Source of Income
Should the wealth of its ruling house fail to pay Liechtenstein's bills, the country has another source of income—fees which companies pay to incorporate in tax-free Liechtenstein.

Scores of concerns including Standard Oil in Europe are registered there. The population, including lawyers who act as company "proxies," are happy about the arrangement, but the treasuries of neighboring countries like Germany, seeing tax money lost to them, are not.

Liechtenstein's close pawn link with Austria did not survive, for soon after the war the country switched to Switzerland as an ally. A customs union was drawn up with the Swiss, and now the Swiss Government manages its telephones, telegraph, and railroads. Despite the cutting of old ties with Austria, however, the tiny Nation for a time after the Austro-German Anschluss joined National Socialist Germany might insist on taking

Losses Are Heavy as Scene Shifts Southern China

Stubborn Chinese resistance to the Japanese "punitive expedition," sent to protect Japanese trade in China 18 months ago, has embroiled the Japanese government in one of the major undeclared conflicts of history.

Contrary to the expectations of the war lords of Nippon, China, which formerly was rocked by internal dissension between leftist and rightist political parties has presented a united front to the invader. While Japanese gains have been widespread they have been accomplished only by great losses in men and military supplies and also at the sacrifice of economic stability at home.

The Tokyo government has been forced to resort to drastic decrees in an effort to keep the Chinese campaign moving. Industrial mobilization has been declared while Japanese trade has been seriously impaired by unofficial boycotts and sanctions.

It is believed that an effort to stimulate trade was behind the sudden extension of the theatre of military operations to include southern China in the vicinity of Canton.

Landing troops at Bias Bay, formerly the headquarters of Chinese pirates, the Japanese war machine moved virtually unopposed against Canton and captured the city without a shot being fired. Some sources believed the victory was the result of a "sell-out" by Japanese adherents in the local Chinese government.

Whatever the reason the Japanese found little remaining but a mass of blackened wreckage. Loyal Chinese resorting to the "scorched earth" policy fired the city before evacuating. Currently the Japanese have incurred the displeasure of the United States and Great Britain through violation of the nine-power treaty protecting the trade of foreign nations with China.

The Japanese command has closed the Yangtze river, along which most of the operations during 1938 have centred, to foreign vessels supposedly as a safety measure. The other powers, particularly Great Britain and the United States, point out that despite Japanese assertions the river is liberally sprinkled with Chinese mines, Japanese trade vessels are constantly plying between Yangtze ports. They demand that the river be re-opened to navigation and the ships of their nationals be permitted equal rights.

Until the campaign opened in south China, the main forces of the Japanese army had been concentrated along the Yangtze thrusting toward Hankow, provisional capital of Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek. The drive, which the Japanese expected would consume not more than a few weeks at the outside, stretched into months.

Determined Chinese resistance coupled with spring floods bogged the drive in a sea of yellow mud and water. For weeks at a stretch the Japanese war machine was stalled.

When the floods abated the Japanese started driving up the Hankow railroad endeavoring to cut this line of communication. Hampered by stubborn resistance and guerrilla tactics to which the Chinese resorted, the army of Nippon suffered a break down of discipline which for a time threatened the entire campaign.

The advance started moving again in June, however, and although the defenders fought desperately they were unable to cope with the superior armaments of the Japanese divisions. Japanese naval and air forces began piercing Chinese blockades on the Yangtze.

The Chinese positions were reduced to wreckage. Slowly the defenders were forced in and on Oct. 25 the Japanese army moved into Hankow, again to find that the Chinese had ap-

IRELAND REMOVES APPLE TARIFFS

Canadian Apples to be Allowed to Enter Duty Free

The Irish government has announced that British Empire apples, including Canadian, will be admitted duty free under license from January 1 to March 31. All other apple imports are dutiable at the rate of one penny per pound.

There formerly was quite a heavy tariff against the movement of fruit into the Irish Free State, it is explained by Okeanogan shippers.

The benefit felt would be "measurable" in the words of one Okeanogan operator. There never has been a substantial direct trade between the valley and Ireland. The latter market gets its supplies from Liverpool and other English ports, to which destinations the Okeanogan crops move.

"Any removal of the Irish tariff, however, will make for a readier distribution of our apples, even if it is in an indirect way. With the barriers down in Ireland, the supplies bought in England will tend to move into our market somewhat more readily," said another shipper.

REFRIGERATORS FOR ESKIMOS

JUNEAU, Alaska.—The salesman who bragged he could sell ice to the Eskimos would be out of luck these days, for the natives are making their own refrigerators.

Harry Sporling, forest service official, says that near Noatak and Kotzebue natives in the CCC program are digging tunnels and chambers in hillsides where the Arctic frost is always within a few inches of the surface. There they keep reindeer meat and other perishables.

Other Eskimo CCC projects include building airplane landing fields, reindeer corrals and shelter cabins, and controlling predatory animals.

plied the "scorched earth" policy as had been done before the capture of every major city. The main industries and the principal airports of the city had either been burned or dynamited. With the fall of Hankow the Japanese army completed the occupation of every major city in China, Nanjing, Peking, Shanghai, Canton and smaller cities all have fallen to the invader.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai Shek moved his emergency capital to Chungking, approximately 400 miles northwest of Hankow and announced that China would continue to fight. Japan refused even to consider peace talks until Chiang has submitted

P. J. KITLEY TALKS TO UNITED Y.P.S.

Subject of "Mind" Proves Fascinating Topic for Audience

A fascinating thought-stimulating talk was given by Phil J. Kitley on "Mind" to the Young People's Society of the United Church on Sunday evening, December 18. Miss Mabel Swainson aided him to illustrate one phase of the subject.

Miss Swainson's suggestion that those of the Y.P.S. who participated in the December 16 broadcast quiz program be given a vote of thanks was heartily endorsed through applause by the young people.

The Y.P.S. bowed to the senior high school team by a few points, the competition being close throughout. Those comprising the team were: Harold Burks, Miss Norma Burr, Miss Jean Burt, Lorne Mathison and Walter Watson.

That increased interest is being stimulated was shown by extra accommodation being provided in addition to the fifty chairs which were quickly occupied. A party will be held Friday this week at eight o'clock in the Orange hall.

An appropriate Yuletide program is planned for Christmas Sunday.

Lengthy Debate Promised on New Trade Agreement

Will be Subjected to Thorough Discussion, Manion Says

The most extensive and far reaching trade agreements between any countries of the world were signed in Washington, November 17, as representatives of Great Britain, Canada and the United States affixed their signatures to documents designed to bring economic stability to all three nations.

Thousands of tariff items are encompassed in the agreements and, in Canada alone, trade and commerce throughout the country is affected directly or indirectly. However, the real effects of the treaties will not be known until several months after they become operative January 1. Leaders of industry and commerce, while differing on some points, have in the main, endorsed the trade agreement as between Canada and the United States, and predicted that it would result in inestimable benefit to Canada.

Considerable controversy, however, is expected when the treaty is brought before the House of Commons for approval. Hon. Dr. Robert Manion, leader of the opposition, has already suggested that Canada has "given up the British substance for the American shadow," and while he has refused to enlarge to any extent on that statement he has promised a complete discussion in the House when parliament meets.

The same arguments which were imposed against the original trade treaty with the United States in 1935 will, it is expected, be reiterated with renewed force in as much as the schedules are materially reduced. The surrender, to the extent that it is made, of the Canadian advantage in the British market, will give rise to objection and to varying appraisals of the value of the compensating concessions, especially when one has reasonable assurance of permanency and the other is limited to three years.

The tri-partite agreements are based on the principle of give and take. Canada surrenders some of the advantages which it has enjoyed in the British market so that the United States may share on a more equally competitive basis in the market. By way of compensation Canada secures certain concessions in the United States markets hitherto protected by high tariff barriers. Perhaps no item in the voluminous list arouses greater interest than the preferential advantage on wheat which Canada surrenders in the British market. The six cent per bushel preference was available only on Canadian wheat shipped from Canadian ports. Any effect, therefore, will apply not only to the wheat growing industry but also to the business of Canadian ports which previously monopolized the export shipments.

The whole trend of the agreement is downward. The United States granted Canada 129 new reductions while Canada effected 283 in favor of United States imports. There is apparently no question that the international situation has been a contributory influence and that the economical alliance of the United States and Great Britain, as well as Canada and the other dominions, has its psychological aim as well as its material aspects.

The whole affair is most comprehensive. The items effected exceed greatly in those of the 1935 agreement with the United States, while the present agreement taken in conjunction with the interlocking agreement between the United States and Great Britain unquestionably means the most extensive and far-reaching trade agreement ever concluded between any countries in the world.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT SHOULD CONTINUE

World Would be Better Place if Spirit of Christmas Endured Throughout Year

A Christmas message was given to the Young People's Society of the United Church, Christmas Sunday evening by Vernon Clippingdale of Pioneer Mines, who was president of the group a few years ago.

The many injustices of the world have been endured and agitated against and many systems have been offered to eliminate unfairness and instead to practice fair dealings and prosperity and peace. Some people had said that Christianity had failed. Mr. Clippingdale disagreed; he said it had never been tried so it could not have failed and it is up to the people to establish Christian principles.

Christmas is the time that these principles are more noticeable and he added that if the kindness prevailing at this time was continued and increased throughout the year that the world would be the paradise which is possible.

It isn't the British race only, or the Germans, or Jews, that are the superior people. Every nationality is on an equal footing. A local example of lack of Christianity was cited illustrating the hostile attitude taken by many people towards persons of other races, creeds and color.

Christmas is a great occasion to emphasize that Christ respects persons for their behaviour and cooperation with others and there is no justification for anyone having contempt for others because of difference in thoughts and color of the skin.

Miss Pauline Engel, chairman, introduced the visiting post-president, Mr. Clippingdale, and thanked him for his appropriate remarks.

Customers: "Look here, you're giving me a very big piece of bone." Butcher: "Indeed I'm not! You're paying for it!"

He: "I owe all that I am to my mother."

She: "Why not send her a five shilling postal order and settle the account?"

ANTI-SEMITISM SWEEPED EUROPE DURING YEAR

Jews Earn Sympathy by Violence of Nazi Party Campaign

Jewry has earned the sympathy and support of virtually every Christian nation throughout the world by virtue of the unprecedented anti-Semitic campaigns presently being carried out in most of central Europe.

Centred in Germany, the campaign against the Jews has few instances in history to equal the violence and savagery of the current attacks in countries under Nazi domination.

Co-incident with Germany's absorption of Austria, the campaign against the Jew was intensified. The Nazi hordes had no sooner gained control of the country when depredations and violence started. Jews prominent in Austrian civil and social life before the Anschluss, were forced to clean refuse from the streets of Vienna, watched over and jibed at by Hitler's brawny storm troopers.

Jews, whose names had become bywords in the financial, industrial, scientific and cultural circles of the world, became targets of Nazi viciousness. Some of them who were fortunate enough to have powerful connections abroad found asylum in England and the United States. Others were interned in concentration camps.

Those who have been able to flee the country have done so penniless. Against those remaining, decrees have been made forbidding them to continue as proprietors of their own business ventures. Jewish stores and other enterprises have been sold at ridiculously low prices to Aryan adherents of Nazism.

The Nazis have asserted their intention of driving the Jews into Ghettoes. There, one German newspaper said, "they will be starved into crime and punished with the sword, the way all criminals in Germany are punished."

The latest Nazi action, and one which has virtually destroyed the economic standard of the Jews in Germany was the levying of a fine of more than $400,000,000 as punishment for the assassination of a German embassy official by a 17-year-old Jew in Paris.

Suicides have taken countless toll. Concentration camps have added to the Jewish mortality and tales of cruelty, beatings and death at the hands of Nazi guards spread horror throughout the world.

The anti-Semitic measures spread to Italy, Germany's staunch friend of the Rome-Berlin axis. While the measures there are not carried out with the same ferocity as those in Germany, a relentless campaign to eliminate the Jews from the cultural and economic scheme of Fascism has gained momentum.

Czechoslovakia, drawn into the Nazi orbit, commenced purging the Jewish element of the country. Jews expelled from Sudetenland and prevented from entering Czechoslovakia were marooned on a narrow strip of "no man's land" and forced to seek dubious shelter under an inadequate canvas roof. Some died, others went insane.

Meanwhile, Great Britain and the United States, shocked by the plight of the Jews began searching for a solution to the problem. Palestine, at one time designated as a national home for Jews, was in the throes of an Arab uprising protesting the spread of Jewish influence in the Holy Land.

In an effort to establish a sanctuary in some corner of the world, Britain called upon her Dominions. South Africa was considered, specifically Tanganyika, one of the German colonies given to Britain at the close of the World War.

In order to find a solution, the democracies under the leadership of Britain and the United States, will confer shortly on the problem in hopes of relieving their plight as soon as possible.

Meantime thousands of those who have escaped are being held in camps in Belgium and Holland awaiting the outcome of the conference between the powers. Their asylum is not permanent, however, as their ultimate fate hinges on finding some place where they can be settled and start life anew under the auspices of the friendly nations.

"When my grandfather was born he only weighed two pounds!" "Really! And did he live?"

Mac had a very broad accent, and found it difficult to make the London chambermaid understand when he asked for hot water.

"Hotus, tankus," he said, "can ye no understand plain Scotch?"

At that she smiled and disappeared, to return with a bottle and tumbler.

MORE 'LADY BOBBIES'

LONDON—Women police have proved themselves so successful in London that Scotland Yard is increasing their total by 50 per cent.

There are at present just 100 "Lady Bobbies" on the force. The number is to be brought up to 150 as soon as possible.

Most of Scotland Yard's women police look after neglected children, watch over girls who have thrown over parental control and may be getting into bad company, and such work. But it is possible for women to go a long way up the Yard's ladder of success. Three of the present women police are fully-trained detectives.

Although every woman policeman must pound her beat for two years, the Lady Bobby can eventually become an Inspector.

HINTS ON FASHIONS

Wool, Gleaming Satin Create Pleasant Effect

Wool, satin combination

The combination of dull wool and gleaming satin is a very popular and attractive one, and here we find it used for a gem of a little daytime frock. The wool is in a very fine, light weave. The vestee and sash are of satin with a very lustrous surface. The dress is simply cut, but is very smart, the detail being unobtrusive. The wool reverts turn back to disclose the draped section, which is rather puffy at the neck. The skirt has just the barest fullness in front. The sleeves have a slight puff at the shoulders and are just to below the elbow, a favored length.

EDWARD G. ROBINSON known to millions on screen and radio for his dynamic characterization is in real life a genial person who greatly prefers a pipe of tobacco to a gun pipe, and a good book to a belt on the jaw. His subtle blends of the weed are well known to devotees of the Lady Nicotine and he has the largest collection of pipes in Hollywood. Pipes of meerschaum, ivory and clay and forgetting the humble cornucopia of all shapes and sizes the church warden the best Indian battle-battle or hooka prehistoric contrivances with the bowl in the shape of a bird. African pipes mounted upon cow's horns make a display well worth seeing. Mr. Robinson's next Warner starring vehicle is "Brother Orchid."

HIGHER PRICES WERE GENERAL IN OLD COUNTRY BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Demand Was for Bright Red Apples and Newtowns Did Not Find Any Response

Under moderate supplies of boxed apples from British Columbia a rather active demand has developed on all markets, particularly for colored varieties and prices show an appreciable rise over last week, the largest increase occurring in the preferred sizes, the weekly market report from London, issued by W. B. Gornall on December 16, states.

McIntosh Reds are unfortunately in small supply but where available, prices have risen in conformity with other varieties. Jonathans are more conspicuous and values have increased about 1/- per box, except for large sizes such as 138s, the price for which remains practically unchanged. Delicious have experienced a somewhat better demand and values show an increase ranging from 1/- to 1/6 per box.

Newtowns are appearing on the market in increasing quantities mainly from the U.S. but the market is not showing any keen interest in this variety. The demand for apples at this period immediately preceding the Christmas holidays is definitely towards well colored fruit, and values realized for the green Newtowns are appreciably lower than for Jonathan, Delicious, etc. Values have been mainly around 8/6 to 10/-, with a few lots reported at somewhat higher prices.

Other varieties have sold well and Winesaps making a first appearance on the market, realized from 10/3 to 11/- per box and Stayman 10/- to 10/8. Rome Beauty, fancy grade, also has benefited by the improved demand for colored varieties, realizing 9/6 to 11/6 according to size, while Wagener and Spitzenberg have been mainly above the 10/- level.

While fresh arrivals of barrelled apples have been considerably smaller than for several weeks past, demand has been rather slow owing to the change of trade being filled to a large extent from previous sales, also the market is mainly looking for well colored and attractive dessert fruit for the Christmas trade. Limited quantities of Nova Scotia Cox Orange are finding a very fair demand and quite satisfactory prices, and the best packs of Golden Russet and colored fruit are meeting with a fairly ready sale, but for the balance of supplies the market is showing little interest.

At Liverpool new arrivals, ex "Newfoundland" and ss. Samaria, from Nova Scotia comprised about 12,800 barrels which, together with a small carryover from the cargoes of the ss. "Almena" and ss. "Manchester Exporter" which were sold the previous week, provided a comparatively limited volume of fruit. During the earlier part of the week a good demand developed, particularly for boxes of attractive appearance, and values were well maintained at previous levels, with slight advances in a few instances for packs of particular merit. Later in the week prices eased somewhat.

A moderate supply of boxed apples from British Columbia met with good demand and changed hands at advanced prices. McIntosh Red were extremely limited in volume and an excellent range at 11/6 to 12/3 developed. Jonathan in larger supply met with an even better demand and a top price of 13/- for extra fancy was reached, and cee grade sold at 9/6 to 11/-.

Winesap, Spitzenberg, Rome Beauty and Wagener were included in the offerings, and some good prices for these varieties were realized.

Ontario fruit was extremely small in volume and while Greening sold well, Golden Russets realized much lower values than the Nova Scotian variety. Northern Spy packed in boxes realized a wide range, 6/6 to 10/-, but Snows sold better at 9/- to 10/-.

The supply of B.C. apples on the Glasgow market, confined to the cargoes ex ss. "Loch Monar" and "Moveria" has been very limited in volume and quite good prices were realized, although the bulk of the fruit offered for sale by auction was of large size, 138 to 150.

Jonathans formed by far the greater part of the supplies available and while the sizes were mainly on the large side, 138 to 150, with a small quantity of 163s, values compare very favorably with those received on other markets, extra fancy 10/3 to 11/9, fancy 9/6 to 11/3, cee grade 9/- to 10/6. Delicious were in extremely limited quantities, with sizes ranging from 216 to 138 and prices realized were 10/4 to 12/-.

Approximately 1,000 barrels of Nova Scotia Starks 2 1/2 up, were brought in from another market, the No. 1 grade was partly cleared at 17/6 to 18/-, Domestic 16/-, with some slack at 14/-.

A sale of B.C. and Ontario apples ex ss. "Consuelo," at Hull and about 500 N.S. barrels carried over from the ss. "Viola" were offered for sale at the beginning of the week. Ontario Baldwin realized 16/- to 21/-, and in the B.C. section Rome Beauty was the principal variety offered selling at 8/- to 10/0 according to grade and size. Cee grade McIntosh were in limited quantity at 9/- to 9/9 but Newtowns were only partly sold at 8/9 to 9/6.

Boxed apples of the red varieties have been the centre of attraction during the week at London. B.C. Jonathan, Delicious, Winesap and McIntosh have met with a keen reception at firm prices. Jonathan was the favorite variety and quantities have changed hands at from 11/- to 12/- for extra fancy and fancy at auction, while in private treaty sales slightly higher prices are recorded. Delicious, Winesap and McIntosh have lagged slightly behind, but trading has been brisk.

There is lack of interest in the Newtown and the variety is moving into trade channels rather slowly at 8/6 to 11/6 per box. It is expected that this variety will receive a better reception in the New Year, at present the red varieties are preferred.

The market for barrelled apples is rather dull, except for well colored varieties. Cockens and Domestics are meeting with poor reception and there is likely to be a carryover into the New Year.

Golden Russets developed a slight weakness and somewhat lower prices have prevailed No. 1 20/- to 23/0, Domestic 13/3 to 14. On a short market owing to exhaustion of Ring-lash supply, Nova Scotia Cox Orange are finding a good demand with prices fairly well maintained from 28/- to 30/- per half barrel No. 1 grade.

The best packs of Baldwin Spy and Gino have realized from 17/- to 19/-, but unattractive packs, particularly in Domestic grade, are finding little demand and can be disposed of only at low prices, values down to 10/- and under have had to be accepted.

culated chiefly with the idea that all growers who wish to discuss them should have the opportunity to do so. When the Convention meets in Vernon, with some fifty or more delegates present from the fruit area, there is no doubt that the innovations contained in the plans mentioned above will be given full attention and considerable discussion by the delegates. The Convention should be able to arrive at an estimate of the value to be derived from any one of them. That will be a large part of the duties undertaken by the representatives from the Locals.

However, it is possible that those present at this meeting may not feel ready to make a final or irrevocable decision on all details connected with these suggested plans, and should such be the case, it would be unfortunate if action was allowed to drop or the deliberations of the Convention arrive at a stalemate. Were this to occur, my suggestion to the delegates would be that they appoint a special committee from the B.C.F.G.A., whose duty it should be to prepare recommendations for the consideration of the delegates who will have the task of nominating or electing the next Board under the Act, before May of 1939. The Executive of the B.C.F.G.A., with the assent of the Directors, will be prepared in that event to offer suggestions to such a committee and undoubtedly these suggestions would include a review and possible revision of the present set up and also recommendations for the safe-guarding of the finances of the Association.

After all, there is not so very much difference except in scale, between the deliberations of the B.C.F.G.A. Convention and a parliamentary body and the standard of living in Canada. Westbank has a similar idea, as it advocates a fixed price for the product sold within the country.

Another Westbank motion endorses part of an Oliver resolution, "that the Dominion government should subsidize Canadian export apples to Great Britain to the amount of the tariff reductions. Okanagan Mission local has endorsed this plan, as well.

Cheaper methods of handling low grade fruit are advocated by Armstrong and Okanagan Mission. Oliver suggests that only where the price there is no more reason in my view, that there should be any suggestion of confusion in considering certain projected changes or improvements in the method of conducting our business than there is in a legislative assembly when various proposals are under consideration by the House as a whole.

The Association is very much alive to the fact that it represents ALL growers and the Executive have carefully refrained from expressing opinions during the past few months, which would have the effect of preventing or discouraging constructive ideas advanced by any grower in any section, but when the growers at large have been given plenty of time and the fullest opportunity to go into the suggestions raised, the Executive and Directors will take the necessary steps to put into force any measures which have the approval of the large majority of growers.

We shall hope for a full and candid expression of opinion by delegates present, and feel reasonably assured that the result will be beneficial to the industry.

paid to the grower will probably be equal to, or greater than, the usual packing charges, shall apples be packed other than face and fill or some similar pack.

Rutland advocates an amendment to the fruit act so that apples loose in unboxed or stained boxes be prohibited from entry into Canada from the United States. Okanagan Mission wants proper packing and inspection regulations on fruit trucked from the U.S.A. to this country.

Westbank has gone on record as advocating that no great sum be spent for advertising fruit, while Kaleden suggests that the Dominion government advertisements be made more comprehensive in scope and containing more names of varieties produced in quantity in B.C.

Under the heading of transportation, Robson-Bonington local asks that immediate steps be taken to bring the question of freight rates before the railway commission with a view to obtaining a reduction in freight rates corresponding with the reduction in value of the goods transported.

Okanagan Mission wished the tolls on the Cariboo highway as they apply to fresh or canned fruits and vegetables removed.

Winfield and Okanagan Centre local has gone on record as favoring that all statements from the B.C. Fruit Board be made under the three signatures of the board members, in view of recent statements issued in the Valley press and in Country Life.

Elison has favored the jumbo crate or some similar package in transporting lower grades of apples "to avoid the excessive bruising now apparent in the face and fill pack and to reduce the cost of packing."

Two casual golf acquaintances were walking towards the green when they sighted two women coming over a hill.

"Here comes my wife with some old hag she's picked up somewhere," said one of them. "And here comes mine with another," retorted the other, icily.
